Mercury Slips Off To 7 In Salem; 17 At Noon Is High Mark

TWO CHURCHES IN OHIO HIT BY FIRE

Ten Persons Succumb As Result of Weekend Accidents

Easter of 1940 went into history today as the coldest on record in Ohio and many other parts of the country but it won't come so early again in this century.

And Salem folks who like their Easter warm will not be disappointed about that. Here the mercury hit a low of 7 at 7 a. m. Sunday and managed to "climb" to 17 at noon for a "high" for the day.

Those flowery doo-dads women call hats were far too few to qualify as parades but traffic officers in larger cities predicted parades will have a try at it again next Sunday.

The good in the ill wind blew pedestrians right into Ohio movies, which reported their largest Easter crowds.

Two Churches Burned

Two churches burned. Fire at the Methodist church in Edison, Morrow county, drove the congregation into the snow. Flames destroyed the United Brethren church at Pioneer, west of Toledo, before services started.

Ten persons died as result of Ohio traffic accidents over the weekend. The list was headed by four Cleveland youths killed by a truck which crashed into their automobile at Sandusky.

A mass of polar air over the eastern two-thirds of the country brought frigid temperatures expected to linger several more days.

Among the low marks which set all-time Easter records were: Cleveland 9 above zero; Columbus, 13; Dayton, 13. Toledo reported 7 degrees. Light snow flurries alternated with sunshine.

Why It Was

The Council of Nice determined that Easter shall be the first Sunday after the first full moon on or after March 21 but astronomers say the moon will not be full as early as the 24th again in the 20th century.

A bus bound for Cleveland was destroyed by fire 10 miles north of Toledo. All 32 passengers escaped after the driver, Albert E. Kiehl of Akron, noticed the flames starting under the rear.

The most unhappy man sobbed in a Cleveland jail cell that "the first chance in my life to be dressed up on Easter" was ruined by detectives who took him into custody as he emerged from a shattered store window with new coats, hats, shirts and trousers. The 28-year-old would-be beau brummel said he was married at a Worthington orphanage. Police Lieut. A. F. Foley, who was to have directed the Cleveland Easter parade that wasn't there, said "Just wait until next Sunday. The folks who have pretty new clothes are bound to show them off."

Oil Man Killed

LANCASTER, March 25.—A. J. Colman, 65, president of a Lancaster oil company bearing his name, is dead—the victim of a traffic accident. He was injured 11 days ago.

Mrs. Moore, now residing near Wellsville, divorced her husband three months ago, the sheriff said.

The five-ton truck-trailer struck the eight-year-old car from the rear and virtually sheared the body from its chassis.

Harold M. Malott of Braden, O., uninjured truck driver, told Sheriff William S. Souter he was blinded by the headlights of a New York Central train approaching on tracks which parallel the highway.

SENATE BEGINS
TRADE PROGRAM
DEBATE TODAY

Harrison Urges Retention; Cites Dangers of Business War

PITTMAN TALKS

Reciprocal Pact Fight Is Billed As Star Show Of Year

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 25.—Senator Harrison (D-Miss) opened senate debate today on extending the reciprocal trade program with an appeal to his almost evenly divided colleagues that they retain the system lest an eventual world trade war threaten this country with "an economic collapse."

Abandonment of the policy of executive tariff-making, the chairman of the senate finance committee asserted, would invite foreign fields and factories to vie "with each other and with us" as soon as peace returns abroad.

Emphasizes Scope of "War"

"Let no one be deceived as to the magnitude of that trade war," Harrison admonished.

Senator Pittman (D-Nev), leading off for opponents, said the program was unconstitutional because it does not provide for senate ratification of trade agreements.

The agreements really are treaties, Pittman argued.

A handful of noncommittal members held the balance of power on the house-approved measure to continue the far-reaching program another three years beyond June 12.

It was billed as congress's star show of the year for President Roosevelt made the extension proposal one of his key recommendations and Republicans said that it would become a major campaign issue.

Working Up Speed

Consequently, leading orators on each side were working up speeches which they hoped would convince the undecided senators. Opponents contended they had a 50-50 chance of inserting an amendment to require senate ratification of each trade agreement.

Administration forces, declaring that such a requirement would nullify the program, made one poll which showed the amendment would be beaten by three votes if three doubtful senators were not counted.

Another check recorded a six-vote margin against ratification.

There were reports in the capitol that Mr. Roosevelt might veto the bill if the amendment was written into the bill. It was defeated in the house, which voted to extend for three years the President's power to trade off tariff concessions by the United States in return for lower duties on certain American exports.

Earth Hit By Solar Cyclone;
Communication Lines Crippled

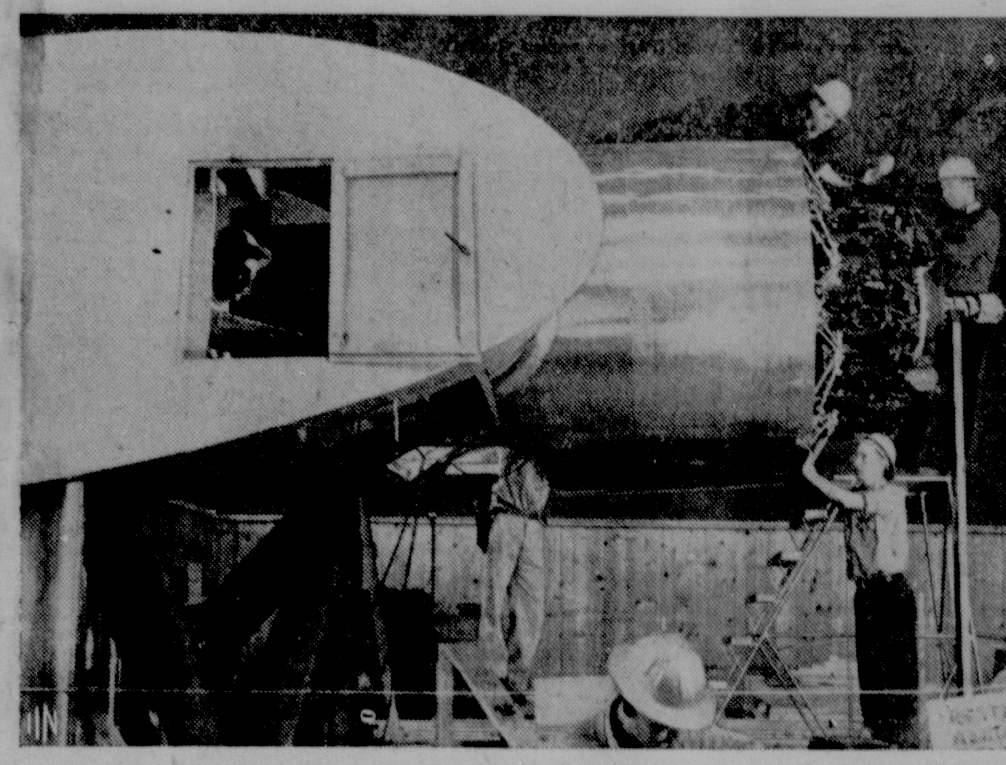

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 25.—The earth recovered today from the communication-wrecking effects of a magnetic storm, possibly the greatest in modern history.

A tornado-like solar disturbance, scientists said, whipped up huge spots on the sun from which a stream of electrical particles emanated, rattling the earth's atmosphere and virtually isolating America from the rest of the world for several hours yesterday.

The phenomenon affected land telephone and telegraph cables, the wireless telephone from New York to London, Paris and Rome; short-wave relays and even long-wave radio to a lesser extent.

For hours the crippling blow delayed movement of thousands of Easter messages via telegraph.

Also Fear Reich May Be Engineering Rumanian Oil Grab

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, March 25.—Britain's warships scoured Germany's North sea shipping lanes today in an effort to strangle her trade with Scandinavia while suspicion mounted that the reich might be engineering a grab of Rumanian oil.

Pushing her sea blockade further from home shores, Britain counted three blows against Germany's merchant marine in the mine-infested waters of the eastern North sea.

Two German cargo carriers became the war's first merchantmen victims of British submarines during the Easter holidays. They were the coal-laden freighter Edmund Hugo Stinnes, 2,189 tons, sent to the bottom yesterday by shellfire near where a torpedo earlier had sunk the 4,497-ton ore carrier Hedderheim.

Coke Ship Grounded

The British also credited naval action for the grounding of the 5,000-ton German freighter Osi-prussen, which ran ashore on Jutland with a cargo of coke after zig-zagging for three days to escape British searchers off the west coast of Denmark.

On the debit side, the admiralty acknowledged one casualty—the 210-ton naval trawler Loch Assater, which was sunk by a mine off the northern Scottish coast.

The former Aberdeen fishing boat, converted to war use, was the British navy's 31st loss of the war. I had survived a German bombing attack in January.

The air ministry also disclosed the loss of a British plane on a night reconnoitering mission over Germany.

Much British attention, however, centered on the Balkans as a possible coming "hot spot" of the war.

NORTH OF THE BORDER

The Cromwell incident serves one purpose at least. It reminds Americans that Canada is one of the allies fighting Germany—and that the United States isn't.

Canadians see no reason under the sun why the United States minister to their government should be getting his wrist slapped. All he said was that the allies should win.

Most Americans feel that way about it. Mr. Cromwell put their feelings mildly, as a matter of fact. In comments on his remarks, the Canadian press was universally pleased.

Such an opinion merely confirmed what Canada believed to be true about the United States; it was a moral ally even though its national policy prevented physical alliance. Yet, when Mr. Cromwell, speaking as an official representative of the government, dared to say so in a few moderate words, he received an official reprimand.

It's all a big puzzle to the Canadians. Probably a great many Americans are puzzled too; they needed to be reminded that the United States still is neutral, that it is not one of the allies—like Canada—but a theoretically independent nation no more inclined to favor one side than the other.

PAPER PLANES

What threatens to be a knockdown fight in government circles over sale of "experimental" fighting planes to the allies leaves most observers more puzzled than concerned. What's the fight about?

U. S. plane manufacturers and the government that controls them can't reasonably expect the allies to buy anything but the best that's available. Yet, apparently, that is what critics of a policy of making the latest models available think the allies should do.

If prospective purchasers, realizing that delivery can't take place for at least a year and perhaps longer, insist on obtaining planes with a fair chance of not becoming obsolete before they're produced, that's good business.

It may be questionable military judgment for this country to give European purchasers a crack at its best fighting planes, but on the surface that looks like something decided when the neutrality act was opened up to give the allies access to American airplane production. If the purchasers had been warned they might not be able to take advantage of the latest paper planes turned out by American designers they wouldn't have cared a whoop whether they got in the American market or not. They presumably are capable of turning out obsolete planes themselves; that's why they're willing to spend a billion dollars for better planes here.

OFFICIAL SCORER

Which version of the Syll island raid, the confused reader asks, should be believed? Apparently, the original version, given by the British, was composed mostly of wishful thoughts. The royal air force didn't do nearly so much damage in its sustained raid as aviators reported and as the government wanted the people to believe.

This is made reasonably certain by reports of newspapermen writing for the United States press, who were permitted to examine the scene of the bombing. If damage had been as extensive as the British claimed, no examination would have been permitted. If damage had been half as extensive as the British claimed, traces could not have been obliterated in the brief period between the end of the raid and the newspapermen's visit two days later.

Evidently, in this particular case, therefore, the British over-reached themselves in an attempt to convince their own population that the royal air force was master of the aerial situation. Early exultation will change to misgivings as it becomes known that in the most sustained effort of air warfare so far the royal air force did not wipe out its objective—in fact did so little real damage that the German government dared to permit foreign newspaper correspondents to visit the scene afterward. What the war needs is an official scorer.

CONTRABAND

In line with the rule that anything which might be useful to the enemy is contraband, the British are looking for Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the man who does tricks with money.

Next to the rumored secret device with which Germany is said to be able to stop internal combustion engines by remote control, a man who can do tricks with money is the world's most valuable military asset.

Fact of the matter is, when the financial effect of the last war is remembered, there's really nothing else that matters half so much as being able to make two dollars grow where no dollars grew before.

Due largely to Dr. Schacht, largely reduced to relative obscurity, Germany pulled through the most disastrous of all inflations and cooked up enough financial porridge to ready it for another crack at the European heavyweight title. The British can't be blamed for putting him on the contraband list.

ITEM FOR A TIME CAPSULE

On March 21, 1940, when the din was at its fiercest, a Mr. Hawley, member of New York City's anti-noise committee, dropped a 10 inch spike at Sixth ave and 34th st. and because the spot was 43.6 decibels quieter than in 1938 was able to hear it hit the pavement.

This was proof that things were getting quieter in New York City and was accepted as a sign of progress. In 1915, only 325 years before, during the construction of a storehouse and fort by the New Netherland Co. a carpenter listened to the echoes of his mallet thumping on a wooden peg and thought with a good deal of satisfaction that it, too, was a sign of progress. He never dreamed the day would come when Manhattan island would be trying to back-track on the civilization he was helping to build.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, March 26

THE LUNAR transit for this day forecast a very lively day, with much stirring at particularly high tempo and probably with some agitation or excitement. Concentrated effort may be brought to bear in breaking up long static conditions in order to make way for important new ventures. This may cause sudden upsets and upheavals, with maters materializing quite unexpectedly. The state of health may also prove a disturbing factor.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively year, with much stirring of a surprising and unpredictable nature. These may involve radical change in plans, objectives and possibly in environments, preliminary to the shattering of old congestions so that more definite progress of a constructive trend may be engineered. It may take drastic action, perseverance and fortitude to cope with deep-seated inertia or restrictions. Be careful with the health. Elders may prove difficult.

A child born on this day may have much intellectual vigor and versatility, being alert, brilliant and keen as well as studious, profound and original. It may also be temperamental, emotional and restive.

They tell us Dewey at 37 is too young to be president. If he goes hunting for any other kind of job they'll probably tell him he's too old.

Benefits Of Fruit Juices
Are Cited By Clendening

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Can anything be done to hold off the advance of disability in the aging eye?

In the course of routine eye tests at the Hastings State hospital in Michigan, it was found that in middle-aged patients clouding of the chambers of the eye, associated with impaired vision, is frequent. This may possibly be a precursor of cataract. It may complicate simple presbyopia, or old age eye.

Observations upon groups of these patients showed that there was a vitamin C deficiency in the particular group that had optical opacity. In these cases massive daily doses of ascorbic acid (Vitamin C) concentrate were given by mouth for eight weeks. Improvement of eyesight in 60 per cent of these treated patients was seen. Marked improvement sets in within the first two weeks of treatment.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Actual cataracts were not affected by this method of treatment, all improvements being due to clearing of the optic media.

Vitamin C is present in orange and tomato juice and other fresh fruits. The study would suggest the value of large doses of fresh fruits and such conditions.

Drinking Water Temperature

For those working at indoor occupations, what is the proper temperature of the drinking water?

Americans are used to much colder drinking water than people in other countries. Those in industry find that if they furnish water at the temperature of 68 degrees F., it is objected to as tepid. On the other hand, there is a prejudice against the use of water that is too cold, or ice water.

There is no reliable evidence that ice water causes any injury to the alimentary tract or any part of the body. If taken during a meal, it probably slows down digestion, but this only for a few minutes. If taken in large quantities, three or four glasses, water near the temperature of ice may cause a spasm of the throat, as well as of the stomach; even acute dilation of the stomach has been reported. However, this depends a good deal on individual idiosyncrasy. We eat ice cream with benefit and the Eskimo eats frozen meat apparently without harm.

Ingredients of Deodorants

What are the ingredients for deodorants used on the body, especially under the armpits?

Most of them are of very simple composition. The base is usually zinc oxide, sometimes with the addition of fat and benzoic acid.

Questions and Answers

B. C. R.: "Is baking soda taken every day injurious to the human system? I take it often for heartburn, and it invariably relieves me until I eat again."

Answer—The use of sodium bicarbonate and other alkalis is the basis of most treatment of acid stomach and ulcer. It has been taken by patients for years without doing any harm. Sometimes we hear of a condition of alkalosis being produced, but this occurs very rarely and in my experience is more of a bugaboo than an actuality.

E. E.: "What are adhesions which usually occur after an operation and what causes them? Can a person be operated for the above if they have a fallen stomach?"

Answer—Adhesions are strands of connective tissue that form in the peritoneum or from any serous surface. They are almost inevitable after an abdominal operation but they do not always cause trouble. Sometimes there is an adhesion between two loops of the intestine or between the intestine and the abdominal wall. The peritoneum is very sensitive to being handled and reacts by throwing out a number of these connective tissue cells. When the symptoms call for it, operation is possible and the adhesions can be severed. The fact that a person has a fallen stomach is no contraindication to this operation.

"SELF MADE GIRL" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XVIII

"Of course, either looks sweet on you miss. It's just whether you wish to be very, very chic—or more gay and girlish."

"Chic or gay and girlish? Well, she'd been gay and girlish and she didn't get her anywhere. Linda decided to be chic and buy the black satin blouse and the silly, off-the-face straw hat."

Then a wave and a manicure. "Caroline?"

Linda looked at the little row of polish bottles on the manicurist's table. Caroline... would that be too red?

No, if she was going to be chic it was the right note. But it made her lipstick look pale, so she bought a new one. Then the gardenias, bought at noon and carried to the office in a box, to be pinned on at the last moment.

She'd been making mistakes, doing careless work for a week now, and Mr. Bottinger was beginning to think he'd made a mistake in his new secretary. He noticed the nervousness, the flushed cheeks, the never-fading signs of "a date."

Somehow he'd had the idea that the little Perry girl was a home body; that she didn't have boys and dates like the others. He'd had plans for her. He'd even gone so far as to speak to Deaming about her. Told him that she was the best prospect he'd seen in a long time, and that with training he thought she could go into an executive position in a few years. It was plain that he had spoken too soon.

"Oh, Miss Perry," he called. As she rose from her desk in the outer office to answer his call, her coat dropped and went rolling through the door, came to a stop against his feet.

"Oh," Linda retrieved the compact, slipped it into the pocket of her suit.

"The letters," Mr. Bottinger said wearily.

He watched her fold and seal them, without even noticing the corrections he'd made in ink.

Linda walked to the corner, and stopped a taxi.

"The Ritz," she said, self consciously.

Now that it was too late to do anything about it, she wished she had let Glenn meet her at the office instead. He seemed surprised that she wanted to go to his hotel. Maybe it wasn't quite the right thing. Well, too late to do anything about it now.

But her hand shook with nervousness as she opened her compact for a last look at herself. The black blouse that had been so smart an hour ago looked old and funeral now. BLACK? Why in the world did she get BLACK? Every fool knows that men like blue best. She was wearing blue that night... the only night that he showed her really cared.

She tried to be sensible. He was almost a stranger now, just a boy being polite, looking up an old friend.

A boy staying at the Ritz with his father. He might not know her when he saw her.

Would she know him? Turning into the hotel, the moment of meeting upon her, she wondered for a panicky moment if she would know him. Try as she would, she couldn't visualize him. He was rather tall and dark... but the world is full of tall, dark men. What a joke if they really didn't know each other. If she didn't know him, after thinking about him and dreaming about him half her life. What a joke! What a ghastly, crazy joke!

But as he came toward her, smiling, and she saw again the straight brows, the fine dark eyes, the generous mouth, she almost laughed aloud, to think she could have thought she could forget.

"You're so good to come! But why wouldn't you let me call for you? To come all this way—"

"I wanted to. I hate the office. Oh, Glenn, you look just the same! Just exactly the same!"

"You don't. What have you done to yourself?"

"It's three years, I suppose I do look older—"

"Now Linda!"

"I do! For that matter, so do you. You do look the same—the same person I mean, but you're quite terribly grown up. I expected something more—more collegiate. Now it's perfectly all right for me to be grown up because I'm working, and supposed to be. But you're still in school—"

"Just a school boy, still. But I graduate in a few short weeks, my lady. That is, I think I do. And I'll be working shortly after that. Linda, I can't get over it—you used to be a pretty child, but you're beautiful now. What have you done to yourself?"

"Put my hair up. See? It's long I wear it in a knot!"

"Little Linda, with her hair up. A grown lady. But it's fine. I like it. It's lovely, Linda."

"Really like it?" She was glowing with happiness excited and thrilled, and only a little apprehensive. She was hoping that Glenn's father wouldn't appear on the scene. One thing at a time—Glenn first.

"Do you know, that crazy summer we all had together was the best I ever had. Really, Linda, I've had some wonderful trips since then, but that still stands out as the happiest, craziest time I ever had. We were all young enough to—to just be happy. And some of those friendships have lasted and I suppose they'll always last. You, and Connie, and Ted Swerling—"

"I don't remember any Ted Swerling. Who was he?"

"Don't you remember the big red-headed kid we used to play tennis with at the club? Turned pro last year?"

"You must have read about it in the papers."

"Um—maybe. I'm awful. The way I forget people—"

"You'd better not forget me." Forget HIM! The color mounted on her cheeks embarrassingly. "Oh, I couldn't forget you and Connie. That's different!"

"Surely you read about Connie's engagement—"

"No—I'm afraid I'm rather bad about reading the papers, too. But she wrote me. Wanted me to be maid of honor. I only wish I could. Ten bridesmaids and—"

"She DID! Well! You two HAVE kept up old friendships! I knew you were great friends, but—maid of honor! That WOULD be something—big Mayfair society wedding, and all that."

"And it would be Constance's wedding," Linda said reprovingly, for she wasn't going to be laughed at.

"Ruth had a letter from Connie, too. Called me up to tell me about it."

"RUTH!"

"Ruth Wagner. You haven't forgotten HER?"

"Oh, no. I remember her, perfectly. My sister was telling me about her, too. She saw her in Wanamaker's or someplace recently. 'Nice kid, Ruth.'"

"Oh, yes," Linda said. "Yes, she was always very nice."

"Why don't you like her?"

"Goodness! I just said I did! Didn't I?"

"But you sounded so sort of cold, and disapproving."

"I DID! I'm sure I didn't mean to. Of course we were never such friends, as Connie and I, but—of course I knew her, too."

RUTH WAGNER! Talking about Ruth Wagner, when they hadn't met for over three years, and every minute was precious. RUTH WAGNER, indeed! Linda could have wept from resentment of her own inadequacy. To think that she couldn't change the subject without making it appear that she was jealous or something.

Glenn looked at his watch, put it back in his pocket without noticing the time, and had to take it out again. Things weren't going so well, though he didn't know why.

"Is it too early to have dinner?"

"Why—I don't know. What time is it?"

"Almost seven. Let's go, shall we?"

A little awed by the dining room (none of the casual boy friends had achieved anything so grand), Linda was silent at first, just smiling across at him, so proud of him, so pleased with herself, happy just to be there.

"Oyster? Chicken? Or would you rather have squash?"

She didn't care what they ate. Sawdust would have been all right, just to be here, with him. To have him say that she was beautiful. To sit across the table from him.

"What are you going to do when you're through college?" she asked at last.

"Dad has promised me three months abroad, and then I'm going into my grandfather's business. Steel. Grandfather's all hot for it. He never liked it because Dad didn't go in for it, you know, and since my uncle's death last year there hasn't been anyone in the family in it. Everett wouldn't go for it."

"Um—maybe. I'm awful. The way I forget people—"

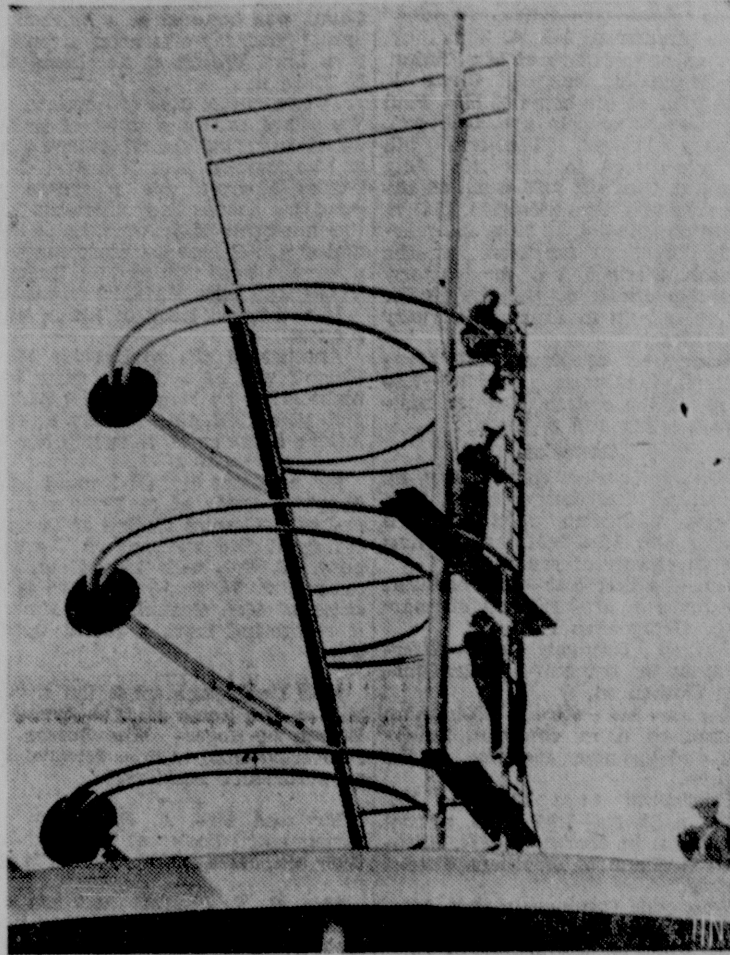

"You'd better not forget me." Forget HIM! The color mounted on her cheeks embarrassingly. "Oh, I couldn't forget you and Connie. That's different!"

"Surely you read about Connie's engagement—"

"No—I'm afraid I'm rather bad about reading the papers, too. But she wrote me. Wanted me to be maid of honor. I only wish I could. Ten bridesmaids and—"

Spring Cleaning at the Fair

Spring is here—and the opening of the New York World's Fair is not far off. Workmen are shown working on the Operations Building as the fair is refurbished for May 11th opening.

"What's he doing?" she asked—not that she cared.

"Oh, still studying art. Didn't Constance tell you? They were at St. Moritz last year together."

"No." (Never mind about Constance.) "It will be wonderful for you to have that position in your grandfather's mill, won't it?"

"Oh, even a... I suppose. I'm not starting at the top, you know."

She laughed. "I didn't think you were!"

She was thinking. He'll be working in a year... about to marry if he wants to. There'll be no reason for him to put it off if he thinks he's found the right girl... if he falls in love.

They had three perfect days together, or rather, three perfect evenings. They met every afternoon when Linda was through work, and went places. Dinner. A theater. Then a night club.

ing a cup of coffee at a soda fountain on her way to the office.

And then trying to work, with a head like a drum, and heavy eyes. Almost falling asleep every afternoon. And then, miraculously, at 3 o'clock coming to life!

Help Promote Safety—Dim Your Lights When Passing.

IN OTHER, blunter words, why be satisfied to trail?

Why buy a car that's content to follow along—when little, if any, more money will put you in a Buick up where the banners are flying?

For as five minutes on any busy street corner will show you, this year's automotive style pattern was cut by Buick a good twelve months ago.

This year's performance tempo was set two years back when the Buick Dynaflex engine appeared.

And this year's comfort standards still have some catching up to do to equal Buick's combination of four coil springs, recoil-mounted Knee-Action, the SUPER's five-foot-front seat room and Foamtex cushions.

Eventually, perhaps, others may find a way to micropoise-balance engines after assembly in search of Buick's present silky smoothness.

They may get around to making Two-Way Direction Signals standard equipment instead of extras; they may heavy-up their frames, and generally seek to equal Buick's staunchness.

Meantime you'll have those Buick blessings to enjoy.

You'll step out front at the touch of an eager treadle, swing through the gear changes with light-and-easy finger-flicking, pilot a joyous traveler that's equally ready for work or play, and does everything with ease matched only by its smartness.

You'll drive the style-leader, the comfort-leader, the value-leader—a car full of things that will still be "new" a good two years from now.

And as a visit to your Buick dealer will show, you'll get it at prices like those you find on the sixes.

That gives you something real to look into. Start looking early—to get in on all the fun.

USE TRUCKS TO SAVE FORESTS

Southern Loggers Abandoning Former Destructive Methods

The problem of perpetuating the nation's forest reserves apparently is being solved in the southern states at least.

Lumbermen in that section say that a new method of selective cutting which they have pioneered guarantees a perpetual supply of good timber if universally adopted. Already they foresee the following:

Steady employment for communities which otherwise would be abandoned, as many have been in the past.

Conservation of rich top soil. Preservation of game. Prevention of climatic changes resulting from denudation of large forest areas.

Abandon Destructive Methods

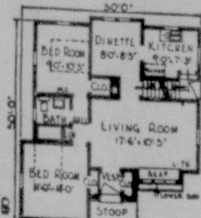

Formerly the companies built logging roads into forests and used steam skidders to drag logs to the trucks. Skidders are steam-powered drums which drag in the logs by cable. The method is not only expensive but highly destructive. Little of value is left after a stand is logged in this fashion.

The new method depends on the use of modern low priced trucks like the 95 horsepower Ford V-8, inexpensive logging roads, easily and cheaply built with modern road machinery, and log loaders of the drag line shovel type. With this equipment loads of from 2,500 to 4,500 board feet are economically and speedily handled.

The trucks go into the woods and get as close as possible to the spot where trees are being felled. Usually this is a matter of only a few yards. The logs are dumped along railroad tracks wherever they are still in use. Often there is no railroad, and the logs are transported direct to the mills.

Logging with trucks, road machinery and log loaders is so much cheaper than with earlier methods that logging companies can take only the larger trees, leaving the smaller ones to mature later. A continuous yield results.

Attractive English Bungalow

Four Rooms, Bath and Dinette

Here is a modern home in every respect that the Damascus Lumber Company in Damascus can duplicate at a price almost any family can pay. Rent money will pay for it. All that's required is 10% down and a steady income.

The low, harmonious lines of this home are accentuated in beauty by the delightful texture treatment with brick, shingle and siding. Its charming exterior is matched in the interior that is planned along distinctly modern ideas of arrangement and convenience. The rooms are notably large for a house of this size. This is accomplished by utilizing every inch of space. It is of interest to the housewife to note the plenty of closet space even without reckoning on the ample storage space in the attic. This house will fit on a lot as narrow as 33 feet but of course, it would be desirable to have a 50 foot lot to allow plenty of space and privacy.

TOUR RECORDS SEEN FOR 1940

Home Travel by Auto Looms As Result of War Abroad

With much of Europe closed to tourists on account of the war, this year undoubtedly will set new records for automobile touring on the North American continent. Hundreds of thousands of persons who would spend their vacations abroad in normal times will be forced to make other plans and a very large percentage, probably a large majority, will decide that the least expensive and most enjoyable way to get a real rest and a change of scene is to travel by motor car.

Let It Wait

No one need feel that he is undergoing any hardship in being deprived of a trip to Europe. That can wait. Meanwhile the United States offers so much variety in the way of vacation appeal that any taste can be gratified.

Spring already is here in parts of the United States and many motorists are meeting it somewhere along the route. There seems to be a decided increase in spring touring lately. Those who live in the colder parts of the United States find it delightful to escape the fag-end of their winters and go south for a couple of weeks. How far they have to go depends on how soon they want to start. There is a spread of almost two months between the time it is spring along our southern borders and in our highest latitudes.

Automobile touring has been taken out of the adventure class. In the first place, modern motor cars are so reliable in operation that one need think of nothing save keeping them fueled, lubricated and wintered. With one of the current Chryslers, for example, a tourist doesn't have to be conscious that he is driving anything mechanical at all. He pushes a button to start the engine, and turns a key to stop it. Otherwise he has no more concern about the mechanism than though he were riding on a magic carpet impelled solely by his wish.

No Gear Shifting

Then, too, if he is driving a Chrysler equipped with fluid drive he doesn't even have to bother with shifting gears. He just puts the car in high and leaves it there all day, unless very exceptional conditions arise.

He not only rides with a minimum of mechanical concern but he rides comfortably. He has ample room; he has seats of the right height; he is "cradled" between the axles where riding is easiest; he has an Airfoam seat cushion and scientific springs; he has the benefit of aero-hydraulic shock absorbers. He rides safely because the car has an all-steel body, equal-pressure hydraulic brakes, a low center of gravity, a ride stabilizer, easy steering, fine headlamps.

Touring is not only comfortable and safe but very economical in today's Chrysler. Visit the Smith garage, E. Third st., and see why this is the case. Let them tell you, all on obligation to yourself, all about the new Chrysler and the Plymouth. It may open up a new vacation program for you, too.

GOOD PLUMBING ESSENTIAL NOW

Salem Folks Find J. R. Stratton Service Dependable

Spring cleaning at one time was something to be associated with beating the rugs and cleaning the wall paper. But now folks are inclined to go a little deeper.

And this is true, particularly where there are remodeling programs to be considered.

Emphasis has been placed on kitchen and bathroom construction and service, speaking generally. These are two of the most important rooms in the average dwelling. Once considered only from a utilitarian standpoint, they are now being given "beauty treatments."

Not the least important part of this program are the plumbing and fixture—not to mention the workmanship that goes with them. Neither cheap fixtures nor shoddy work are tolerated by the home owner who builds for permanence.

Folks here are accustomed to calling upon J. R. Stratton, master plumber, when they have work of this type. Stratton, by experience, is equipped to handle any plumbing problem. He also handles the best in fixtures and equipment.

If you are contemplating kitchen or bath room renovations, the job will be better with Stratton service.

The mercury economy test car arrived last Monday on time at the E. L. Grate Garage, driven by "Bill" Graham of the Ford Motor company.

Bill was met at the city limits by Chief of Police Ralph Stoffer and Mayor Norman Phillips. Stoffer is at the left in the foreground of the picture above, the mayor is at the right. Back in full view is Joe Swartz, and partly hidden is Mack Welker, local E. L. Grate salesman.

This test car is touring 70 cities in Ohio. It was welcomed by Governor Bricker at Columbus March 11 and official records show it is truly an economy car, averaging over 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

OILS KEEP UP WITH ADVANCE

Lubrication Is Improved To Meet Needs of New Model Cars

Modern oils and greases are improved to keep pace with needs of the new-model cars they lubricate. Petroleum refiners have anticipated and prepared themselves to supply the new lubricating requirements demanded by the improvements and refinements on the motor industry's 1940 cars.

Evidence of effective collaboration between these industries is the so-called fluid flywheel, emphasized this year, as eliminating the heavy metal flywheel, and as many as 12 separate motions of hand or foot in the operation of a car.

Develop Special Oil

A fluid is essential to the new device. It was necessary to develop a special oil of a definite weight and body, highly resistant to temperature change, tough enough to withstand intense churning, and free from impurities.

Other innovations on new-model cars—improved hydraulic steering stabilizers, shock absorbers and other devices—similarly have presented new problems for petroleum research engineers to solve.

But always ready is the laboratory of the Penzill Refining Co. They have solved these problems and have in the hands of the modern service station like Lee Butler's Service Center on W. State st. the exact lubricant to meet every 1940 automobile manufacturer's requirements.

PARIS SPRING RUSH IS HEAVY

Offers Valuable Service During Housecleaning Period

Dry cleaning orders are unusually heavy at the present time at the Paris Cleaners' plant on the North Benton rd.

There are several reasons for this.

Folks are keeping winter clothing in condition, eliminating the ravages of dirt and grime at the far end of a season of heavy firing.

At the same time, preparations are under way for the spring season which, despite the antics of the weatherman the last few days, will be here pretty shortly.

There are school and other garments to be prepared and, on top of that, the spring house cleaning campaign is already started or just about to start, depending on individual conditions.

Manager L. C. Price points out that he has observed many new names on the company order books this spring and expresses the opinion that superior work is responsible.

"People who understand quality generally are quick to appreciate superior work," he said, "and are not influenced by bargain campaigns. They want results and our customers know they can depend on results."

The Paris Cleaners can prove a big help in the housecleaning program, by the way. There are many items which may be cleaned, at nominal cost, lifting the burden from an already crowded housewife's shoulders.

Betty Field and Burgess Meredith in a scene from "Of Mice and Men", at the Grand tonight and Tuesday.

The first film to be shown at the Grand under the recently announced seven-days-a-week shows policy, is the screen version of John Steinbeck's biting picture of migratory workers, "Of Mice and Men," showing tonight and Tuesday.

Steinbeck, with his "Of Mice and Men" and newly filmed "Grapes of Wrath" takes his place with the immortal crusading writers of past years—Voltaire and Rousseau, who championed the cause of royalty-trampled French hordes; Charles Dickens who spoke against child labor in his "David Copperfield" and "Oliver Twist"; Emile Zola, who conducted a one-man battle against a nation and army to see justice done; Harriet Beecher Stowe, whose hatred of slavery led her to write "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The characters of Steinbeck's book are played by Burgess Meredith, stage star whose first screen success was in "Winter's Tale"; Lon Chaney, Jr., son of the late character actor, who gives one of the finest performances of the year as the child-minded giant, Lennie; young Betty Field, stage actress recently seen in "Seventeen"; Bob Steele, Charles Bickford, and Noah Beery, Jr.

PASTIME LEAGUE KEGLER HITS 665 IN ABC MEET

GLENN LIBERT TIES FOR NINTH IN PIN EVENT

Four Salem Teams Fail To Place Up With ABC Leaders

Individual scoring overshadowed team performances by a delegation of Salem bowlers who competed in the 40th annual American Bowling Congress tournament in Detroit over the weekend.

While four teams from the Salem Bowling association failed to place up with the leaders, at least three individuals fired scores which undoubtedly earn them a slice of the prize money in the singles event.

Libert Hits 665
The best performance among the Salem delegation was turned in by Glenn Libert of the Pastime league, who hammered out a sizzling 665 series to tie for ninth place in the current singles standings.

Libert, a resident of East Palestine and a member of Eaton's Shell Service team of Columbiana, fired games of 241, 212 and 212. George Hoover, captain and backer of the Columbiana Firestones, also of the Pastime league, compiled 632 in the singles. W. J. "Bill" Eaton, captain of Eaton's Shell Service team, was third high in the singles among the Salem delegation with a 591 series, made on games of 171, 208 and 212.

Libert, Hoover and Eaton are practically certain to receive money in the singles unless scoring runs higher than usual this year.

Best In Doubles
Ralph Gregg and Bill Finley of the Salem Eagles team led the local delegation in the doubles, turning in a 1146 score which may finish in the money. Gregg contributed a 570 series to the total while Finley had 567.

None of the local teams hit scores good enough to win money in the five-man event. The Columbiana Firestones totaled 2493, the Salem Eagles had 2440, Eaton's Shell Service 2415, and the Trades Class 2223.

Members of the Trades Class team did not bowl in the doubles and singles event. All available scores of Salem bowlers in A. B. C. events follow:

Yarosz To Fight Reeves April 15

CLEVELAND, March 25.—Teddy Yarosz, ex-middleweight champion, was scheduled today to box Jimmy Reeves, Cleveland negro, here April 15 instead of Wednesday night.

Tris Speaker, chairman of the Cleveland boxing commission, flew to Los Angeles over the weekend to straighten out Yarosz' two agreements calling for fights in Cleveland Wednesday and Los Angeles Tuesday.

Yarosz chose Los Angeles and the California boxing commission backed him up.

Billy Soose of Farrell, Pa., was signed up to battle Reeves in Yarosz' place this week.

COLUMBUS, March 25.—Thomas C. Bradley of Lexington, Ky., has been appointed presiding steward for the April 26-May 18 spring running meet at Beulah Park track. A new electric starting gate will be installed.

Training Camp Briefs

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25.—If Joe McCarthy makes any changes in his New York Yankees squad this spring, one of them probably will be the dropping of Oral Hildebrand, one of the club's best relief pitchers last season. The veteran was belted hard by the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday and hasn't much pep or enthusiasm in any of his appearances. He may be replaced by a lively rookie, possibly Tommy Reis.

Hoping For Vandy
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—Believing that the only possible cure for Johnny Vander Meer's wild pitching is work, Manager Bill McKee called him for duty against Rochester today. The dead-beat still has hopes that Vandy will come through, despite his slump last year and his failure to show any impressive performance this spring.

SANITARY OUT TO COP TITLE

Needs Victory Tonight To Sew Up League Championship

The National Sanitary cagers will attempt to clinch the championship of the city's Class A basketball league tonight when they face the Ohio State Employment Service at the Memorial building in the second game of a best two-out-of-three series.

The Sanitary won the first game of the series last Thursday night, defeating the O. S. E. S. passers, 43 to 33. A victory tonight will give the Enamelware cagers the championship.

Meeting in other games tonight will be the Methodists and Trinity Lutherans at 7 and the Baptists and Carroll Cadets at 7:45. The Sanitary-O. S. E. S. game is scheduled for 8:30.

The Methodists and Trinity Lutherans will be playing the second game of a Church league series with the Methodists needing a victory to sew up the championship. The Baptists and Cadets will be meeting in the first game of the Class B league's championship series.

8 Fairs Schedule Colt Stake Events

MT. VERNON, O., March 25.—Eight Ohio fairs this summer will offer "Colt Stake" events for two and three-year-old trotters and pacers. The stakes are the property of the Eastern Ohio Horsemen's association.

Beginning Aug. 5 at the Knox county fair here, the association will present racing programs at fairs in Hilliards, London, Canton, Croton, Wooster, Ashland and Delaware. The deadline for entries is April 10.

Major Lanning Parsons of Mt. Vernon is new president of the nine-year-old association. Directors include Ed Dunwoody of Newark, Harry Wise of Canton, Joe A. Neville of Delaware, D. C. Urban of Zanesville and C. P. Conger of Ashland.

150 Expected At Pistol Matches

COLUMBUS, O., March 25.—State and mid-west pistol championships were expected to attract 150 marksmen to Fort Hayes next Sunday for an 11-match program.

Ralph S. Marshall of Lima, state champ, and C. E. Harman of Dayton, midwest tilist, will be on hand to defend their laurels. The championship Goodyear Zepplin team of Akron also will return.

Scores will count in national rankings since the event will be registered with the National Rifle association.

THINK GRISSOM WON'T STAY ON YANKEES' SQUAD

Reds Say Ex-Cincinnati 'Hurler Not McCarthy Type of Player'

BY GAYLE TALBOT
TAMPA, Fla., March 25.—Perhaps they will be accused of poor sportsmanship, but several Cincinnati Reds have offered to bet that Lefty Lee Grissom is not with the Yankees a month after the season begins. "He's not McCarthy's type of ball player," is their only explanation.

President Horace Stoneham of the Giants is an aggressive champion of his manager, Bill Terry. Already this spring the youthful magnate has collided with two sports writers who questioned his choice of a pilot. One of those he challenged, incidentally, happened to be the same fellow who took on the whole St. Louis Cardinal gang single-handed here a few springs ago.

There is only the slightest hope that Bill Delancey, the great young Cardinal catcher who was forced out of the game four years ago by lung trouble, will be able to come back in the big leagues. He looks fit enough as he works out with the club at St. Petersburg, but Manager Ray Blades doesn't intend to subject him to the rigors of northern climate again. However, Delancey might prove a star somewhere in the south.

Experts Skeptical
Expert observers, including rival scouts, who have watched young Dominic DiMaggio bat, frankly are skeptical of the youngster's ability to hit waist-high, fast-ball pitching. His stance, they insist, makes the Boston rookie peculiarly vulnerable to this pitch. Asked how he was able to whang the ball at a 360 clip in the Coast league pitching point out that Coast league pitchers are not good enough to keep the ball where they want it, else they would be in the big leagues. Dominic's glasses are thick-lensed.

Manager of a rival club says that the Cleveland Indians will be extremely lucky if their flashy new shortstop, Louis Brudreau, is ready to start the season. Brudreau chipped a bone in his ankle early last week and is on crutches. "That's the toughest kind of a break to get healed properly," said our informant. "A player seldom recovers anything like his previous speed and agility. Look at Pinkie Higgins of Detroit. He's never been his self since he hurt an ankle."

Leave Players Behind
MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—When Cleveland's Indians break camp after Wednesday's game, Lou Brudreau, Mel Harder, Johnny Allen and Paul O'Dea will be left behind. They are scheduled to remain at Fort Myers in the charge of Coach Johnny Bassler and to rejoin the Tribe on its northward tour at Jacksonville, April 2.

"Razberry" Loop Finishes Season

The "Razberry" bowling league closed a riotous and successful season with final competition at the Grate Recreation alleys last Saturday night.

The league had been in action every Saturday night since it was organized last December. Cash prizes for high scores on the final night of mixed doubles competition went to Mrs. Earl Grate and Albert Spear, 838, and Mrs. Myrtle Hassey and Mrs. R. N. DuBrucq, 769. Low score awards were won by Mrs. Lou Arnold and R. N. DuBrucq and Mrs. John Arnold and "Buck" DeKordes.

Set scores of 50 and 150 were hit by Mrs. Eula Steenon and Miss Minnie Shunn, each of whom received a "Kewpie" doll for her performance. The "Razberry" went to Miss Frieda Shunn, who in her final game, failed to hit the head pin in 10 frames. Miss Shunn, bowling in competition for the first time, did well in her first two games, performing the rare feat of knocking down all pins but the head pin with one ball.

Easter eggs were presented to all bowlers and a lunch was served.

Canton McKinley Wins Swim Meet

PITTSBURGH, March 25.—Bill Schmidt of York, Pa., swam the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:03.7 in a qualifying event of the University of Pittsburgh interscholastic swimming tournament Saturday. The time was one-tenth of a second better than the national schoolboy record set in 1935 by Johnny Higgins. But Schmidt probably won't be credited with a new record because the Pitt pool is two inches short of the official distance.

McKinley High school of Canton, the 1939 winner, again captured the meet, scoring 37. Other team scores included: Ross High of Fremont, 28; Cleveland Heights 22; York 21; Erie Strong Vincent 12; Erie East 9; Potstown, Pa. 8; Erie Academy and Columbus East 6 each.

Breezy Briets Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ.

NEW YORK, March 25.—The golf pros are shooting for purses totaling $200,000 this year. . . . Attendance has picked up 20 per cent at every P. G. A.-sponsored meet so far. . . . Well, who's going to get Medwick? . . . Billy Petrolle, the old "Fargo express" who roared through the light and welterweight ranks ala Henry Armstrong some years back, has turned manager and is handling Nick Rudolovich Duluth steel plant heavyweight.

The Wichita (Kan.) Beacon will issue a special Jack Dempsey supplement April 14.

Believe-It-or-Not
Sounds unbelievable, but the good folks of Dunkerton, Ia., swear Junior Wumkes, a High school basketball player, scored nine points in 15 seconds the other night. . . . Give Junior a nice hand, boys.

George Washington Case, the Senators' speed merchant, is getting ready to put a horse in the market. . . . Byron Clark Jr., the Yankees' lawyer, is back from the south and says the only offer he received down there was a two-million buck bite from an unidentified spendthrift. . . . When Tommy Acari reports to the American (Ga.) club today, he'll have it all over the other pitching candidates. . . . Tommy has been throwing the ball several weeks with his wife doing the catching.

Today's Guest Star
Art Rosenbaum, San Francisco Chronicle: "Slip Madigan was taking his pictures off the walls at St. Mary's the other day. . . . Ed Tracy, the college's ticket man, offered to help. 'No need to thank me,' said Tracy. 'Don't touch anything.' . . . Somebody from the board of athletic control might think you're still on my side."

They say Mike Jacobs is considering still another Joe Louis title fight this year with either Lee Savold or Buddy Baer, and we do mean Buddy.

One-Minute Interview
Eddie Fommel, American league umpire: "My greatest thrill in baseball came in 1922 when I pitched and won 23 games for the lowly A's, who won only 26 games all season. . . . I was only four votes behind George Sisler for the most valuable player award. . . . Then the good people of Philly decided to hold a popularity contest of their own. . . . The prize was an automobile. . . . Jimmy Dykes, who was only a utility infielder at the time, was the winner. . . . I didn't get a vote."

Man of the Week: Dizzy Dean for deciding that, after all, $10,000 per year is preferable to starving.

Chicago Keglers Lead A. B. C. Meet

DETROIT, March 25.—Judging from scores posted to date in the American Bowling Congress tournament, Chicago appears to be emerging as the nation's bowling stronghold.

Of the 20 top places in the standings, half are held by Chicago teams and individuals. The Chicagoans were in the vanguard of a weekend assault on the maples which created major changes in every division.

The honor of scoring the best individual performance to date, however, fell to Marty Cassio of Elizabeth, N. J., who jumped into the lead in both the singles and the all-events Saturday.

In Sunday's firing, Nick DeGrazia of Chicago rolled up a 688 total for second place in the singles shortly after a fellow townsman, Charley Bunn, had tallied 683. Joe Schafek and Anton Novak, Chicago, paced the doubles with 1238 for second place and Vince Fowler rolled 1339 for a fourth-place tie in the all-events.

Oklahoma team Wins

DENVER, March 25.—Cage war veterans of the Phillips 66 outfit carried the National A. A. U. basketball championship back to the Oklahoma city fields today.

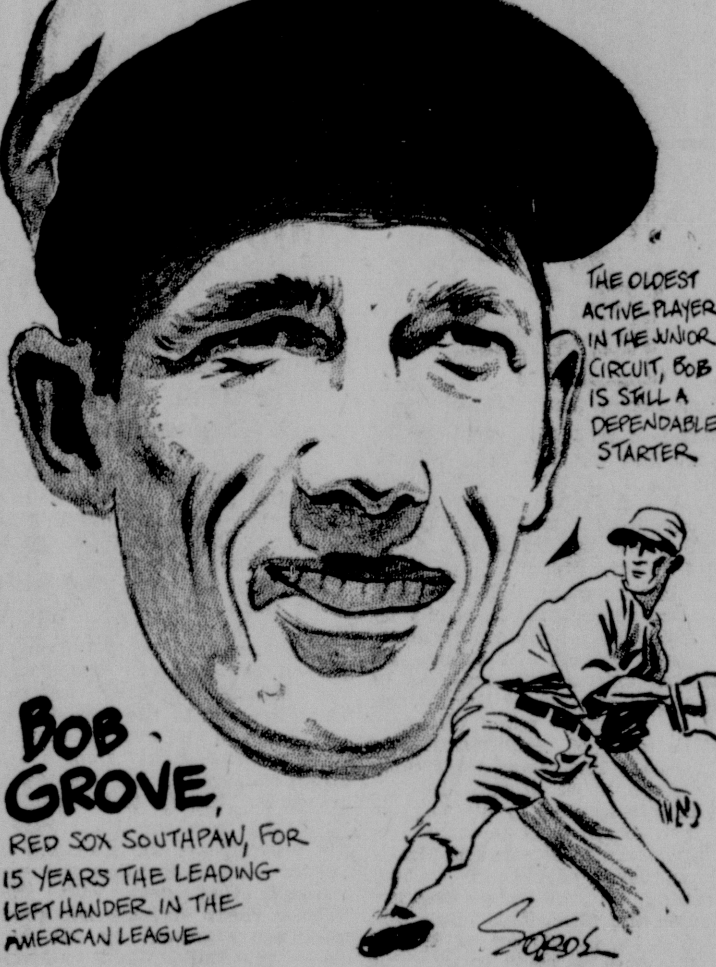

The green-garbed Bartlesville giant's, runnersup twice, won their first national crown, 39 to 36, from their most intense rivals, the defending champion Denver Nuggets, whose five starters played the entire 40 minutes.

CAT ON PAYROLL
AS RAT KILLER

Earns 85 Cents Weekly
As Pest Exterminator
In Office

PITTSBURGH—This is a success story—the success of Betty the cat in rising from a waif kitten to the position of importance on the payroll of a 15-story office building.

"Betty the cat—general exterminator—85 cents weekly" is the way she is listed on the payroll ledger of Pittsburgh's Park building. She's the building's chief rat-catcher and pest exterminator.

"She earns many times that amount," Norman W. Lind, building superintendent, says concerning Betty. "But we don't pay her any more because that's about all she is able to eat."

Having no appreciation of the value of money, Betty isn't given a paycheck each week. Instead, the 85 cents is paid to Colveman P.
Walsh, elevator dispatcher, who then buys salmon and cream for Betty's enjoyment.

Since last September when a man left her in the lobby of the building, Betty has been on the job. She puts in a six-day week, but rests from her labors on Sunday.

Before Betty appeared, the Park building, like many others in Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle, was bottered by the rats that came from the city's three rivers, through power conduits and sewers. But Betty is more than a match for the rats and she patrols the building's basement, taking on even those rodents that are her own size.

As the building's big hydraulic pumps are started promptly at 8:30 a. m. Betty appears in the lobby for breakfast. After being fed she goes down the elevator shaft to sleep for the day.

When the auxiliary pumps start at 5:30 p. m. she arises to patrol the basement until dawn. Only on Sunday, when the pumps do not operate to hold her to schedule, does Betty take time off. On that day, she plays in the lobby with a calypso ball.

SYMPHONY LED BY BOY OF TEN

Lorin Maazel of Pittsburgh Spends Time
Waving Baton

PITTSBURGH—At the age when other children are swinging baseball bats and hockey sticks, 10-year-old Lorin Maazel spends his spare time waving a baton.

For Lorin is busy learning to be a symphony conductor under the tutelage of Vladimir Bakalnikoff, assistant conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony.

Since 1938, when Bakalnikoff first noticed the boy's musical talent while in Los Angeles, Lorin has been learning the music conducting "business" under the tutelage of the Pittsburgh musician.

During that short time, Lorin has memorized and learned to conduct five full symphonies, five overtures and five shorter works.
His greatest achievement to date is mastery of Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony.

The youth began to study the violin at 5, and soon after, took up study of the piano. Under Bakalnikoff's guidance, he has developed rapidly.

Lorin has conducted the University of Idaho orchestra, the National Music Camp orchestra, the Los Angeles WPA orchestra, The Philharmonic concert, given Sept.
6, 1939, was the first time he had conducted a professional group of musicians.

Lorin and his family now live in Pittsburgh, having moved here from Los Angeles when Bakalnikoff came to Pittsburgh. He recently made his first public appearance here, as violin soloist before the convention of the International Council for Exceptional Children.
